

Michael J. Cuttica, MD

Assistant Professor of Medicine
Director, Northwestern Pulmonary Hypertension Program
Northwestern University
Feinberg School of Medicine
Chicago, IL

Dr. Michael J. Cuttica is an Assistant Professor of Medicine and Director of the Pulmonary Hypertension Program at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in Chicago, IL. He is board certified in Internal Medicine, Pulmonary Medicine, and Critical Care Medicine.

Dr. Cuttica received his undergraduate degree from Boston College, Carroll School of Management in Boston, MA and then went on to complete his medical degree from Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. After completing his residency in Internal Medicine from McGraw Medical Center of Northwestern University, he went on to complete fellowships in Pulmonary Medicine from McGraw Medical Center of Northwestern University and in Critical Care from National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, MD.

He has served on the editorial board of Pulmonary Circulation and is a member of several professional societies including American Thoracic Society, Society of Critical Care Medicine, and American College of Chest Physicians. Dr. Cuttica's research interests include pulmonary and vascular medicine.